

From Russia, with love

Atanu Biswas

It was a night of perfect musical magnificence. As the members of the Alexandrov Academic Song and Dance Ensemble of the Russian Army performed at a city auditorium, all that was left for the audience to do was to sit back and enjoy the fascinating performances. What was amazing about the concert was the way the artistes coordinated with each other. The synchronisation of every step and move of all the performers were something the audience had not seen in a long time. The concert left everyone ecstatic and they just couldn't stop applauding. The editor of the concert, Gritsay Anastasia spoke about their other performances. "We are used to performing to packed houses in esteemed places like NATO and Vatican City. It's amazing!" she said.
